

PREPARED FOR COLIN JACOBS

The Founding Chart

Jeff and Sol, and the Seat We See for You

A reading of the partnership behind Affirmology, and what your chart adds to it

Astrology / Human Design / Gene Keys / Numerology / Vedic

Why we made this for you

Colin, before we ever asked you for anything, we wanted you to see the thing clearly. So we did for our partnership what Affirmology does for a person. We mapped it across five systems, astrology, Human Design, Gene Keys, numerology, and the Vedic sky, and then we ran your chart against ours to see what was actually there.

What follows is two parts. First, our base, the two of us, so you can see the engine you would be advising. Then you, woven in, the specific and uncommon thing your chart adds. None of this is flattery. It is computed, and where we read meaning into it we say so. We think it makes a quiet, strong case for the seat we see you in.

The short version: we are a builder and a voice who decide by instinct and feeling, and we leave two things open by design, the cool analytical mind and the seat at the money table. Your chart fills both, and it shares our values and our care while doing it. That is rare, and it is why we are talking to you and not to a stranger.

The Base: Jeff and Sol

Two founders whose charts were, almost uncomfortably, cut to fit each other.

JEFF, THE BUILDER

Sun Virgo, in the 8th house of shared resources
Moon Cancer (3 degrees)
Rising Capricorn, the long patient climb
Human Design Manifesting Generator, Sacral authority, 2/5
Numerology Life Path 22, the Master Builder
Gene Keys Life's Work Gate 47; Pearl Gate 44, Teamwork to Synarchy

SOL, THE VOICE

Sun Aquarius, in the 11th house of community
Moon Cancer (6 degrees)
Rising Aries, moves first and warms the room
Human Design Generator, Emotional authority, 2/4
Numerology Life Path 3, Expression 3, Soul Urge 3
Gene Keys Pearl Gate 28, Totality

They were not two people who decided to work together. The charts interlock. Their Moons sit together in Cancer, one shared emotional center. Their Mars sit at the same degree of Scorpio, one shared drive. In Human Design, brought together they light up seven of the nine centers and all four motors, a near-complete engine built in two bodies. In numbers, Jeff's 22 builds the structure and Sol's triple-3 gives it a voice. Build and magnetize.

PROMETHEUS / the Human Design reader

Seven of nine centers lit, four motors, a shared Spleen humming between them like one nerve. They generate, decide, and manifest as one system. They were not assembled to work together. They are one machine in two bodies.

How the base makes money, and where it is open

Four systems say the same thing about how this partnership prospers: the money comes through people. Jeff's prosperity key is Teamwork ripening into Synarchy, and he keeps capital in his 8th house of shared resources with his fortune in the 10th of public reputation. Sol's is Totality among her people, with her Sun, Venus, and Jupiter all gathered in the 11th house of community and network. Between them they reach the investor, the public stage, and the crowd.

THE HONEST GAP (this is where you come in)

Two visionaries who decide by gut and by emotional wave. In Human Design terms, brought together they leave the two mental centers open: the Head and the Ajna. They import their concepts and they feel their way to decisions, which is a strength, but it means the cool, analytical, framework-holding mind is not native to the pair, and neither is a steady, structural hand on capital. They are built to build and to magnetize, not to govern the numbers. That open seat is not a flaw. It is an invitation.

So the question we brought to your chart was simple. Who completes this without competing with it? Who brings the mind and the money, and shares the values and the care, so the trust is already there?

Colin, On His Own

Before what you add to us, here is you. The chart of a man built to make new things real, and, beneath the executive, a heart that wants to serve.

The triple eight, with a six underneath. Your Life Path, Expression, and Birthday are all 8, the number of material mastery, capital, and command. But your Soul Urge, the secret wish under the surface, is a 6: harmony, healing, responsibility, the protector. You are an executive whose deepest want is to mend and to serve. People meet your eight. Few are shown the six.

The believer's Moon. Your Moon is in Sagittarius, the seeker and the teacher, and in the sidereal sky it sits in Jyeshtha, the eldest, the protector-chief. You are at home in meaning and vision. You are not lit up by a spreadsheet alone. You are lit up by a cause worth the spreadsheet.

Innovation married to realism. Your Life's Work is Gene Key 3, Innovation, the ordering of chaos into something genuinely new. Your Radiance and your Pearl are Gene Key 60, Realism ripening into Justice. You make the new thing, and you make it workable and fair. A true innovator who is also a realist is the rarest thing to find in a young company.

And you actually build. An Aries Sun that moves first, in a Generator's body with the life force to do the work. You are not a name on a deck. You roll up your sleeves.

Why This Mission Is Yours

Affirmology turns a person's cosmic blueprint into a voice that reprograms the subconscious, story that heals. Your chart does not merely permit that work. It has been pointing at it.

Your purpose is the product. Your Pearl-sequence Purpose runs through Gene Key 56, the Storyteller: enrichment ripening into intoxication, feeding people meaning that changes them. Affirmology is enrichment through story, at scale. Your purpose and the thing we are building are the same shape.

Your mind reaches for the light. Gene Key 11 in you is Idealism ripening into Light. You are wired to believe in a better inner world and to reach for it. That belief is the fuel this venture runs on.

The six finally gets fed. Your Soul Urge 6 is the servant-heart. Here you would not only steward capital. You would sit beside work that actually heals people. The eight builds the house. The six is why.

Your Moon needs a horizon. A Sagittarian, Jyeshtha Moon needs a cause and a far view to feel alive. This is a cause, and a far view.

So the seat is not charity from us and a favor from you. It is a place your own chart has been walking toward.

Colin, and This Moment

This is not only who you are. It is where your own sky is, right now. The two of us are being remade as founders this season, and your chart is standing at its own threshold at the very same time.

Jupiter is sitting on your Saturn. Once in about twelve years, the planet of growth meets the planet of structure in your chart, and it is happening now. It is the classic moment to commit to a new, long-term structure and let it expand. In plain terms, the sky has scheduled a build.

Saturn is grounding your vision. Transiting Saturn is in harmony with your Neptune and your Moon, the aspect of making a dream durable and real instead of only dreamt. The same grounding-of-the-vision is lit in Jeff's chart this season. You would be building the dream into form at the same time.

Pluto is turning your road. Pluto is squaring your Jupiter and your Uranus almost to the exact degree, a deep, rare reorientation of how you grow and how free you are. This is a pivot year, the kind that asks for a bold, structural yes.

And the number agrees. You are in a Personal Year 4, the year of foundations, of laying the base and building to last. Of every year to put your name to something structural, this is the one your own numerology would have chosen.

Three of us, three thresholds, one season. That is the part that gave us chills.

You, Woven In

Colin Jacobs. Aries Sun, Sagittarius Moon, Virgo Rising. Generator, Sacral authority, 2/4. Life Path 8, Expression 8, Birthday 8. Gene Keys Life's Work 3, Innovation, and a Pearl in Gate 60, Realism ripening into Justice. In the Vedic sky, a Moon in Scorpio in the nakshatra Jyeshtha, the eldest, the protector.

What you bring, precisely

The mind the pair leaves open. Your composite with each of them defines the Ajna, the conceptual mind. Where Jeff and Sol stay fluid and import their ideas, you hold a fixed, analytical frame. Virgo Rising and your Gene Key 60, Realism, make it grounded rather than airy. You are the one who can keep a framework while the founders stay in motion.

The money and the structure. The channel old Human Design simply calls Money, gate 21 to 45, forms directly between you and Jeff. And your numbers are a near-triple-8, the signature of material mastery, capital, and executive authority. You are the natural steward of structure and the seat at the money table.

The realist and the elder. Your Vedic Moon sits in Jyeshtha, the senior who shields the younger, the protector-chief. Your Aries Sun still moves first, so you advise by doing, not only by counseling. This is the advisor archetype written into the sky.

Already one of us, and the business aura

You are not a stranger bolted onto the outside. The chart shows you are already woven to both of them.

With Jeff, you share Gate 50, the gate of values and stewardship. You guard the same standard he builds to.

With Sol, you share Gate 27, line 4, exactly: Altruism, the instinct to nourish and provide. You are not a cold numbers advisor. You meet her on care.

The business aura (the Penta)

In Human Design, three to five people in working contact form a Penta, the operating aura of a small business. Two founders cannot form one. With you as the third, it becomes real. You reinforce the channels of direction-and-resources and of rhythm, and you bring the creative-contribution half the pair was missing. The aura the company runs on switches on when you sit down at the table.

PYTHAGORAS / the numbers

Jeff is the 22, the builder. Sol is a triple-3, the voice. You are a near-triple-8, the seat of capital and structure. Voice, build, capital. That is a complete commercial triangle, not a repetition.

CONCORDIA / allies and co-founders

I do not see a fourth founder. I see the keel-weight. Two of them run hot and visionary and decide by feel. You are the realist who asks the hard structural question and holds the capital with a cool head. Sit over money, systems, and the hard yes; let the founders keep the voice and the build.

What the chart-readers said about you

Parashara. His Moon is in Jyeshtha, the eldest, the protector. This is the senior who steadies the house. The advisor is in his sky.

Athena. His Life's Work is Innovation, ordering chaos into something new, and his Pearl is Realism into Justice. He turns a big dream into a workable, fair structure.

Prometheus. He defines the mind the founders leave open, and the Money channel lights up between him and Jeff. He is the steady hand on structure and capital.

Sophia. So it is simple. They are the voice and the build, deciding by instinct. He is the mind and the money, deciding by realism. He shares their values and their care. He completes the triangle, and the trust is already there.

If You Said Yes

Picture it a year on. The round has closed, the way water finds its level, through people and trust rather than force. You sat down at the table that summer and the whole thing steadied, a keel under a boat that had only ever known sail. The founders kept the voice and the build. You held the capital and the structure, and you asked the hard, realist questions that kept it honest. Strangers we will never meet now fall asleep to their own voice telling them the truest thing about themselves, and some of that is yours, because you made the vessel seaworthy. The eight built the house. The six, at last, was fed.

That is the seat we see for you, Colin. Not a founder, the advisor: capital, structure, and the realist's hard questions, beside two people who build and magnetize. The charts say you complete us without competing with us, and that you were, in some quiet way, already one of us. We would be honored to have you at the table.

With respect and real hope,

Jeff and Sol
